

Reflection on the formula

I must say that it is Faith and Sharing that brought me into the world, spiritually speaking, of course. Effectively, it was during a retreat that I was doing at Calumet, devoid of all physical amenities, right in the middle of the beauties of nature, that I understood that I was truly a part of the Kingdom and that my stone was just as important as anyone else's. What a startling revelation! My life was making sense. That is why I have some difficulty in believing that the formula is antiquated because there is always a flame in my heart and it still guides me in my behavior after so many years.

I really believe that the formula is simple but quite authentic, and that is what the younger generation is searching for. We must further develop that feeling of pride of being loved by God unconditionally, and of course prerequisites not asked for.

I pray the Holy Spirit to inspire us and to show us the way.

Truly yours,
