History of Faith and Sharing

In 1968, Jean Vanier, a former philosophy teacher at a university in Toronto, was invited by the Bishop to give a retreat for priests. At that time, Jean Vanier was living in France where he founded the L'Arche Community, where people with and without disabilities live together. He agreed to give the retreat, but insisted that it not be a retreat solely for priests. He asked it be open to all people from many walks of life, including the disabled and those most vulnerable in our society. From this, Faith and Sharing was born. With Jean's support, this retreat style flourished across Canada and the United States. He invited people to come together, to form community and to share from their hearts.
